LOCAL AND PERSONAL

HONDO TO CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY.

At a meeting Tuesday night of the Directors of the Fair Association it was definitely decided to celebrate Armistice Day, November 11th, with an appropriate program at the Fair Grounds.

Speakers of state and national reputation will address the crowd; numerous athletic events and other amusements for the children, and a big barbecue for all will be the main events. You will not want to miss it—and especially will you want to hear the speeches. A chance for every child to participate in some of the juvenile events will be offered, and parents and teachers are urged to come and bring all children.

The program is published elsewhere in this paper. Look it up—And come to the celebration.

Word has been received by Judge and Mrs. D. H. Fly that their son-in-law and daughter, Reverend and Mrs. Stewart Clendennin, and baby are to be transferred about November 1st to Huntington in West Texas from their former pastorate at Nogales, Arizona. Mrs. Clendennin and baby will arrive this week-end for a visit with her parents while Mr. Clendennin attends the District Conference at Beaumont.

Best on the market, Nestles Method for permanents, twist or flat spiral wind $6.00 to $7.50 complete, dressed in water or finger waves. Marinello Method for course of six facials at reduced prices. Marinello face creams, soap, lotions and powder, none any better. Hair cutting, tinting, shampooing, scalp treatment, etc.

BRIDE-ELECT COMPLIMENTED

Miss Hedwig Leinweber, whose marriage to Nuel Windrow of Hondo and Laredo will take place in early November, was honoree Wednesday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower of delightful appointments with Mesdames H. J. Meyer, Ben Oefinger, and Alvin Leinweber as hostesses in the home of the former.

The floral motive featured yellow cosmos in crystal bowls, which formed the centerpiece of the lace-covered table in the reception hall upon which the bride's book, a dainty fan-shaped affair tied with a shower bouquet of orange blossoms, was kept. Receiving in the entrance hall were the hostesses, and presiding over the bride's book was Miss Doris Windrow, sister of Miss Leinweber's fiancé. The living room, dining room and music room featured the chosen flower and luminous lights lent a charming, soft background for the bridal shower.

The honoree, lovely in an afternoon dress of black crepe with the square neck and flowing sleeves outlined in flesh and white seed pearl embroidery, entered while Miss Margaret Dillon sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Miss Leinweber was preceded by little May Beth Barry and Norma Zane Kollman, costumed as charming little black cats with bows of yellow ribbon tied about their necks, in keeping with the season of Halloween. Little Miss Mary Beth Meyer, a delightful Pierrette in a black and yellow dress, followed the honoree to her place of honor and after she was seated, gave the following toast, composed by Mrs. J. G. Barry:

Cupid may come and Cupid may go,
But he works for years and we know,
Ere long he will pilot the ship
Which bears Hedwig and Nuel on a Matrimonial trip.
May the sea be smooth and the sky be blue,
And the winds blow nothing but luck to you.
May you be happy and joyful
and gay
And find peace and content along your way.
And if you strive to make each of you forget your strife We know you will be an adorable, loving wife.

While the honoree and her guests busied themselves with the many lovely gifts, a delightful program was rendered. Misses Margaret Dillon, Thelma and Mary Ruth Wilson and Mrs. Horace Bardley were presented in several vocal numbers, duet and trio, and piano selections were rendered by Mrs. Orenith Fly, and Misses Elizabeth Wilson, Frances Finger and Irene Mechler.

Following the program Miss Leinweber in her sweet manner, thanked her many friends for the lovely shower of gifts.

The hostesses assisted by Misses Doris Windrow, Irene Mechler, Mary Ruth and Thelma Wilson and Margaret Dillon, served a delicious repast of hot chocolate, chicken sandwiches and macaroons.

There were 125 guests.

W. M. S. MEETS.

Thursday afternoon the W. M. S. of the Baptist church was entertained by Mrs. Marvin Beal and Miss Fanye Carle at the home of Mrs. Beal.

Mrs. Mulcahy was leader for the afternoon. A very interesting lesson was had, after which the "patches" were taken off the overalls and $8.50 was found under them.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Merrill, Jack Fusselman, Henry Crow, J. M. Mulcahy, O. Crow, Jim Fusselman, Joe Dillon, H. Windrow, Nuel Woods, E. E. Kollman, Bob Robertson, J. C. Merriman and A. Schuchle.

FAMILY REUNION.

A family reunion was held Sunday, October 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hardt in Pandera County.

It was given in honor of their son, Alvin Hardt, and his bride of a few months who reside in Nashville, Tenn. A crowd of 66 enjoyed barbecue, etc., at the noon hour and in the afternoon cake and ice cream were served.

Many wedding gifts were received by the young couple from their relatives.

BAPTIST NEWS NOTES

The San Antonio Association, composed of a group of churches, mainly in Bexar county, recently closed its annual session, held in the Alamo city. Reports from the churches indicated an encouraging denominational growth for the year. Hondo Baptist Church reported 20 additions to its membership, with contributions of more than $2800 to religious purposes. The Association reported a membership of approximately 12,000, with more than 500,000 members in the State. The Texas General Convention will meet in Waco the 10th of November. It is expected that the Hondo church will be represented in this gathering.

Locally, our services will be held on next Sunday, with the Bible school beginning at 9:45 A. M. We urge all of the membership to join in this important work if possible. Neglect is a bad habit, which means defeat and embarrassment later. At 11:00 o'clock the Pastor will speak on "The One Law of Success in Christian Life." Your are invited to hear this discussion. Bring all the family, together with friends who visit you. Nothing better for the home, the state or business than dominant Christianity. No man can afford to do without it. Come.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. has been reorganized. It meets at 6:15 P.M. Mr. Glen Fluker is the Sponsor; Miss Gladys Fusselman is the president. A full corps of officers has been ready on time. Let our boys and girls come, on time, and let us make this thing a go in finest fashion.

The night preaching service has been set at 7:00 o'clock, sharp. We should determine to make this hour a popular one for plenty of special Gospel singing, and bring our unconverted friends, and all who are weak and subject to dangerous temptation. The devil is determined to get us, if we are fools enough to listen to him. God says: "Resist the devil and he will flee from you; draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you." Let us all exercise good sense and go to church next Sunday.

NOTICE TO TURKEY RAISERS.

Are you finishing your turkeys for the market so as to have them in first-class condition? And after they are finished and ready to market, do you know how to market them so as to get top grades and correct weight? Are you interested in knowing how to get every cent for them that they will bring? Our association markets your turkeys in pools, and pays you a liberal advance when you deliver same. When pools are closed, you receive final proceed statement and check. The pools and advance money are announced over KTSA Station every Sunday morning at 8:30, commencing Sunday, November 1st, when the advance on the Thanksgiving Pool will be announced.

Producers not now members, will be given the opportunity to market their turkeys through our association on a Special Marketing Agreement, for the small fee of One ($1.00) Dollar. Before marketing your turkeys, it will pay you well to write, wire, or get in touch with the local representative, or the Home Office and Plant, 116 Blue Star St., San Antonio, Texas.

METHODIST CLOSE OUT YEAR.

The pastor of the local Methodist Church, Rev. P. E. Lancaster, and Mrs. Lancaster left Wednesday afternoon for their annual Conference, which convenes in Austin this week.

The Methodist report a very satisfactory year along all lines. There has been a net increase in the membership of the church. The Sunday school has also increased in interest and attendance. All the interests of the church have had careful consideration and in their proper time and place. Sunday school day and Epworth League day were observed and the full quota, that was asked was raised. Kingdom Extension offering was also made.

A few accomplishments for the year follow:

Young people groups organized.
Camp Fire Girls.
Boy Scouts.
Hy League.
Boys and Girls World Club.
50 training Credits earned.
2 Revivals held.
170 Sermons and lectures delivered during year.
About 1000 visits made.
86 received into the Church.
9 Babies baptized.
The church has raised for all purposes for the year $5000.

The pastor appreciated the fine spirit that has been shown during the year. The report the Church is sending up to conference has been made possible by the co-operation of all members and friends of the Church.

The Conference will close Monday, and the New Preacher will be on the ground next week, it may be the old one made over, anyway he will be New. "Forgetting those things which are behind, press forward."

HAS RADIO AUDITION.

Many radio fans were given a treat Wednesday afternoon when Thomas Taylor, local boy, as a guest of Station K-A-B-C, Texas Theatre Building in San Antonio, was given a radio audition. Tommy's crooning tenor voice came over the air for fifteen minutes of haunting melody and was enthusiastically received, especially by his many Hondo friends listening in. It is hoped that as a result of the audition Tommy's talent will be recognized and that there will be a demand for his voice over the air surpassing that for Morton Downey. He possesses a soothing voice especially adapted to microphone singing and as he is blessed as well with a very pleasing appearance, who knows but he may be one of the bright lights of radio television.

His repertoire of songs included "You're the One I Care For," "Many Happy Returns of the Day," "Blue Kentucky Moon," "Thanks to You," "I Don't Know Why," and "And Now You're In My Arms."

PREACHING.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. P. E. Lancaster, Rev. G. W. Muenink will preach at the Methodist church, Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, Nov. 1.

At the evening hour we will worship with the Baptists.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY SEEKS CHARTER.

At a meeting of the General Castro Colony at the parish hall in Castroville Wednesday night, it was definitely decided to organize a historical society, a non-profitable organization, for the purpose of preserving historical landmarks and legends in and about Medina County, and an application for a charter has been sent to the Secretary of State.

As soon as the charter is received about ten days the society will be officially organized with the usual officers and a Board of ten directors, five women and five men. We understand that our fellow townsman, Judge H. E. Haass, who is deeply interested in the history of the county, has been appointed a member of the Board of Directors, however they have not been officially announced.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman of the October 11th celebration, Mr. Joe Steidle, and business was transacted. Final reports of the committees were given and the financial report was read and approved. The meeting was adjourned to meet again at 2 P. M., Sunday, November 8th, at which time the society asks that all those who are interested in the historical preservation of Medina County, whether man or woman, to come to that meeting. They are planning an active, full program for the future and need your cooperation.

UNINVITED GUESTS HAVE FEAST.

When Mr. and Mrs. H. Shoor and family returned from San Antonio at 11:30 Sunday night, they found that unknown guests, numbering five in the party, had entered their home and had foraged the ice box and pantry for a Sunday night supper. Instead of leaving with the food the guests supped in style, the family said, as they discovered the dining table laid with their best linen and dinner service.

After the five had feasted on a chicken dinner they brewed themselves several cups of tea and enjoyed an after dinner smoke before departing, taking with them all the bread and fruit in the pantry. The guests left no cards, but attached to the empty chicken platter was a caption of "We liked this, wish there was more of it," and to the untouched carrot dish words to this effect, "Sorry, but we didn't like this."

The Shoor family found only cigarette stubs, grape seeds, lukewarm tea and a cooling tea kettle—and went to bed hungry, and puzzled as to whether the uninvited guests were local friends playing pre-Halloween pranks, friends from out of town or hungry hitch-hiking hoboes.

But from now on through the winter, the people of Hondo would do better to lock their houses before they leave—or take the baked chicken with them.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Next Sunday, November 1, at 10: 30 we shall celebrate the 14th anniversary of the founding of the Reformation Movement, which occurred on October 31, 1517. This was the occasion when Dr. Martin Luther nailed the ninety-five theses on the door of the Castle Church in Wittenberg, Germany, in protest against the efforts to commercialize the church's power to grant pardon to the sinner.
Through this Movement the open Bible was given to the common people in their native language and the Christian faith was again firmly founded upon that steadfast doctrine:
"The just shall live by faith."

The Lord's Supper will be celebrated in connection with this service.
Those who wish to partake of the same should announce themselves to the pastor personally on Friday or Saturday if possible. If not possible then, announcements will also be accepted from 9 until 10:00 Sunday

IF YOU ARE TIRED OF

BOLONEY

If you realize that men's clothes are made of wool and not words—

If you appreciate that it's quality fabrics skillfully tailored that cover your body, and not price—

If you're tired of the wild price claims that have appeared in clothing ads lately, you'll do like many others are doing, turning to a known name, a name with a reputation for value-giving, a name that has stood for quality.
A name like Kirschbaum—clothes-makers who are going on their own sweet way, making better clothes than ever and at prices that are the lowest in 15 years.

This Will Help You Go To School

Now that the cotton acreage in Texas has been reduced thirty percent for the next two years by legislation, we are willing to allow, until further notice, twenty percent above market price for cotton taken in on the purchase of scholarship. We will transfer the scholarship to the student upon delivery of warehouse receipt to us and will allow twenty percent above the market price on the day the receipt is delivered.

We will also issue scholarship against notes secured by real estate with clear title, or notes with personal endorsements that the local bank will recommend as being good pay and worth the money. We give a ten percent discount from our regular cash rate to those who prefer paying cash upon enrolling. To others, we offer a liberal installment payment plan. We make no charge for securing students, save time work to earn board and room.

Write, or better still, come to our office and let's talk your problems over. There are very few cases, when a student really desires to attend our school, that we cannot arrange in some business like manner for him to do so.

POLICE SEEK KIN OF CHILD IN NORTH.

Information in regard to the identity of the three-year-old boy found abandoned and wandering in a pasture near Hondo Sept. 12 was being sought in Colorado Saturday by F. N. Flores, investigator for District Attorney Walter Tynan. Flores wrote to several persons believed to have information in regard to the waif.

In the meantime the child has been placed temporarily with a San Antonio family by Miss Lucy Smithers secretary of San Antonio Child Protective and Humane Society.

The child was brought to San Antonio by Mrs. Robert Padgett, who from the general description thought it was her son from whom she was parted in his infancy, when she and her husband separated. Mrs. Padgett said her husband told her he had left the child in Hondo and when she heard of the little waif found in the pasture she believed it was her son.

After bringing the child here Mrs.
Padgett discovered the boy's eyes were blue, while those of her son were brown.

The child had been wandering in the pasture several days when found, it was believed. He was so weak he was unable to walk and could only whisper in a low voice.
His tongue was swollen from thirst and his feet filled with thorns.

Mrs. Padgett said the child was so badly blistered it was impossible to identify him and she took him under the impression it was her son.
The child refused to talk for several days and when he did spoke in German.

The above from a San Antonio paper contains two glaring errors.
The child when found had been abandoned only a short time, and he spoke fluent English for a child of his age.

Federal Road Appropriation

Texas will receive $6,770,221 in Federal road appropriations for 1932. The funds will not be available until 1933, but the apportionment has been announced early in order that road construction plans may be advanced. The conditions are the same as heretofore—the amount must be spent on highways designated as Federal roads and must be matched by the State. It is needless to say that, as heretofore, Texas will use to advantage the full amount of the appropriation, which is larger by about $1,500,000 than that set aside for any other state.

Is Football Menacing Education?

Increased interest in football causes many educators to wonder whether the sport is aiding or hindering education. With nearly every school having a large percentage of its able-bodied male students in constant daily practice, with one or two match games every week during the fall term, some at expensive distances from the local school, and with large numbers of students following the teams around over the country to attend games, class-room work can hardly be all that is to be desired. Students who do not "support" their school team by working themselves into a high pitch of wild excitement at the game rallies before and after a game is played or who absent themselves from games to do other school work are often upbraided for lack of "school spirit."

Taxpayers who foot the school bills are heard complaining that their hard earned tax money for education is not getting desired results. Educators by putting their ears to the ground can even now hear a rumble that threatens to become louder than the grandstand cheering at the ball games. These complaints need only organization to become dangerous to the educational system.

Fewer Governments

The proposal to reduce the number of Texas counties to fifty will hardly meet the approval of the people. There is no reason, though why such counties as may desire to consolidate in the interest of economy should not be given that privilege.
In many cases such consolidations might prove highly advantageous.
The Dallas News suggests that Dallas and Tarrant counties might profit by having one government with the county site at Arlington. Many counties have centrally located county sites with fine courthouses in well established towns and would strongly oppose efforts at consolidation with any other county or counties. The movement to combine county and city governments under one management and thus save the expense of dual government covering the same territory appears to be growing in popular favor. Expenses of government have increased out of all proportion to benefits received.

She Gets The Cotton Cake

Mrs. S. H. Gwyn, of Midland, is pictured wearing a dress, and hat and carrying a purse, all of which cost her but three cents, that amount being spent for thread. The outfit was made from feed sacks, and, according to the newspaper report and picture, is pretty enough to wear to church, picnics, parties and club meetings. This thrifty farm woman also has enough home-canned food in her pantry to last the family nearly two years. There is something wrong, though, about having those feed sacks on a farm where such a thrifty woman lives. The feed for the farm should have been raised on the farm and not brought to the place in sacks.

Town and Farm Meet

Three hundred persons, mostly farmers, recently met at Floresville to discuss farm problems and especially to protest against increased freight rates on farm products. The meeting was started off by serving the crowd 300 dozen hot tamales—home-grown, home-made products—hot coffee and Wilson county brown beans cooked camp fashion, which heated the crowd up sufficiently to tackle the business in hand. A few days later Senator Tom Connally accepted an invitation to speak at Floresville and hear the views of Wilson county people as to increasing freight rates. Such get-together meetings do much good. If farmers in every county would let Washington know their desires in regard to matters affecting them their interests would soon get consideration.

Making Flock Pay

A Gray county poultry owner found that his flock was not paying any profit. He has 325 hens, so he consulted the county poultry demonstrator, who advised a mash, made at home, of 40 percent ground wheat, 30 percent ground barley, 10 percent ground oats and 20 percent meat scrap. The cost, including grinding, was $1.15 a hundred lbs., and the mash was fed with equal parts of whole wheat. The result was that daily production jumped at once from 100 to 164 eggs. Perhaps with proper culling the percentage of increase would have been better. Even as it was, the extra egg production paid the entire feed bill of the flock and about 15 cents a day more. A little sound advice often determines whether there will be a loss or profit in a business.

Truck Killings

Data furnished Governor Sterling show that cotton trucks on the highways have taken the lives of 135 Texans in 30 days. How many were injured and maimed was not made public. The governor says that these huge, heavily loaded trucks are wearing out the expensive roads rapidly and are costing huge sums for repairs to roads and bridges. In Travis county, cotton trucks have been taking a short cut over newly graveled county roads to shorten distance and avoid the main highways and have nearly destroyed the expensive roads in a short while. Just how long the public will let these destroyers of life and property monopolize the roads depends only upon the tolerance of the people. Even now there is strong protest against building highways for the purpose to which they are so largely put.

Mrs. Sevier's Gift

Through the generosity of Mrs.
Clara Driscoll Sevier, who has given $65,000 to supplement a State appropriation of $150,000, a valuable plot of land adjoining the Alamo has been acquired as part of the Alamo Park extension. About two years ago Mrs. Sevier advanced $60,000 with which to save the historic building from passing out of State ownership, and became known as the "Savior of the Alamo." She has given much time and money to preserving the old shrine and in doing so has won and retained the gratitude and love of every patriotic Texan.

struction at Waco expects to employ

FLETCHER'S FARMING.

If the legislators really want to do something to help the small farmer they could enact a bill in one day that would meet all requirements. This can be done, (and the only way) by placing a graduated tax on the bales —say one cent for the first ten bales, $1.00 for the next ten and $5 to $10 over 20 bales. The same would apply to the wheat farmers and would break up the big land monopolies.
Between my place and Eagle Pass three men own 300,000 acres of land, enough for fifty or sixty good ranches, and nothing but a graduated land tax will jar them loose. Take the oil situation with Col. Jake Wolters and his army drawing $5000 per day freezing the little "independents" out.
Does it affect the big producers any?
No, it was exactly what they wanted.
The ban will be lifted when the little fry peters out. In summing up the

WHY PAY MORE

By T. C. Bynum.

In his Jackson Day speech Senator Walsh of Massachusetts said: "In 1929 the incomes of 504 of our super-rich were greater than the total value of the 1930 cotton and wheat crops. Seek no further for the cause of distress both in the towns and in the country." Other prominent men have used similar expressions. Whether or not it is possible to know the exact distribution of our country's wealth, it is patent to all observers, that there is great disparity of ownership between different economic groups; and the least wealth is owned by those who do the hardest and most useful work, ownership of wealth among this group ranging from nothing to a little. And the group that owns just a little is constantly becoming larger, while the group that owns much is constantly becoming smaller. There is only one process by which this result can be brought about, and that is by some taking from created wealth more than they earn, which necessarily forces others to get less than they earn.

We sometimes assume, and this seems to be the assumption of a great many of the writers to this page, that the farm problem is of recent origin. This is not the case. Some forty years ago, when necessity forced most people to provide themselves with a great many food products during the growing season to be used during the winter, people debated the proposition that farming doesn't pay. The farm problem is simply a part of the greater social question—the inequitable distribution of wealth. It is not a question of acres, prices, and crops. And the solution that must be found must result in an equitable distribution of wealth, or the remedy is apt to result in worse condition than the disease itself.

To make clear the point I wish to impress, let us suppose there were only one hundred people in the world, and that they were all living in one community. Then, through their joint efforts they could in any year create wealth to the value of $1000. Now, if ten of the one hundred is permitted to take from this store of wealth nine-tenths of it there will be left only one-tenth for the other ninety people. This is the system under which we live. And the only effort we seem to be making to solve our problem, is a fight among the nine-tenths of the people for a greater share of the one-tenth of wealth. No effort is being made to keep the one-tenth of the people from getting its ninety percent of the wealth. The people who do the useful work of the world will never get what they earn until this process can be reversed.

In my opinion international Socialism is the only solution for the world's distressed condition. Our capitalist system has broken down. Our Sampson has become so strong that he is about to pull the temple down on all our heads. As temporary remedies to help us through the transition period from Capitalism to Socialism, I shall offer as my contribution toward our efforts the following: First call congress in special session and have it repeal the Federal Reserve Banks' Charters and resume its constitutional function of issuing money. Congress should at once issue a large amount of Abraham Lincoln Greenbacks and put the idle people to work and restore their buying power. Then it should pass a new tariff law providing tariff for revenue only. Restore silver to its constitutional place as money. Make all forms of money a full legal tender for all debts, redeemable only in goods and services.

AGAINST ALL WASTE.

Under almost every conceivable condition that might prevail in agriculture, the safest policy at all times, it seems to Farming, is to keep the farm as near as possible on a self-sustaining basis. This achievement permits of the waste of nothing that can be economically saved.

It would not take a seer to tell from the foregoing that Editor Davis took no stock in the advice to plow up every third row of cotton, an idea so absurd its originators soon abandoned it.—Fred B. Robinson in Waco News-Tribune.

THE FARM PROBLEM

By Fred W. Davis, Contributing Editor

FARMERS UNJUSTLY TAXED

The taxes that producers have to pay constitute a heavy public burden. It is conceded by all that producers pay an unjust proportion of taxes. Advalorem taxes fall heaviest upon visible, tangible properties and the producers' properties are of this class. The producers' properties are not only practically all listed but values are placed upon them out of all proportion to other character of property, if we measure values according to incomes. In many instances taxes on farms and ranches equal and sometimes exceed the yearly rental income. If this were attempted in relation to intangible taxes there is not a court in the land would sustain it—and should not do so, because it would be confiscation. Let those responsible explain.

The supreme court of the United States a few years ago, according to the press, ruled that corporations may issue additional stocks and such stocks would not be considered as incomes subject to taxation. Had as well say, if farmers had incomes, and used it to make improvements or to purchase more acreage, it should not be counted in paying income taxes. But instead of this privilege, everything they sell is counted whether it represents profit or not. And besides this, if a person buys lands and has but a small equity in it, he must pay taxes not only on his equity but upon that portion which he does not own (until paid for) but owes for.

But producers' taxes, heavy and unjust as they are, would not constitute a serious cause of rural distress if they were allowed to price the products they sell. Because producers would then do like others who do price their wares, add the taxes to the price and pass them on to the buying public. Hence, denied profits to producers makes their tax burden doubly unjust.

HIGH INTEREST RATES A HANDICAP.

The high interest rates farmers have to pay for borrowed money has already been referred to and no lengthy discussion is necessary. Some may argue that loans to producers are a great risk and the rates must be high. If loaning to farmers does constitute much risk it must be because of the demoralized condition which our present marketing system places upon them. There can be no fundamental reason, because nothing is so indispensable as raw products of the farms and ranches. It is difficult to understand why a credit merchant whose customers are primarily farmers can have a better credit than his very best farmer customers. The leading countries of Europe do not make the same credit discrimination against producers that this country does. In fact, interest rates like everything else, puts a penalty upon production.

DIVERSIFICATION NO PANACEA.

Being beset with every conceivable unforeseen business hazard, the sale of farm products, having never been placed upon a cost basis, and living in a helpless state of continuous uncertainty, there is tragedy in the fact that farmers often take much miscellaneous and superficial advice given by those who do not understand the farm problem and believe anyone should easily succeed at farming. It would, however, be shooting wide the mark to assert that all the advice given to farmers is not sound. On the other hand much of it is of a practical business nature. Farmers should have a sufficient diversity of crops to utilize their full time and to supply home needs, where soil, climate and the landlord will permit such diversification. Farmers get pay for what they produce and use at home upon the basis of what such necessities would cost them if purchased in the market. But there is a vast difference in raising your needs at home on a purchase price basis and raising the needs of others to be sold for whatever the buyers choose to give. Hence, diversification, while a business factor in farming, is not a panacea for the farmers' ills. When a farmer has a surplus of hogs and his neighbors have none, he makes money. When they all get a surplus they all lose money. And this is true of everything raised for sale. The dominant object of farming being to produce something to sell, general diversification of production would no more meet the business requirements of farmers than general merchandising would meet the business requirements of the mercantile business. Nobody advocates all merchants carrying a general stock of goods, because it would not increase general mercantile business one iota in any given trade territory.

Farmers are advised to employ scientific methods of production in order to secure a greater return for their labor. If farm products were priced in a business way this would be much sounder business advice than it is under present conditions. A majority of our farmers are tenants. The acreage is usually determined by the landlord. After acreage is determined the government experts come along and urge scientific preparation of the soil, proper seed selection and intensive cultivation. This all costs more in money and work, but it is hoped the greater yields will more than make up the extra costs. Then if the weather is favorable, and good crops are harvested, the producers immediately find themselves penalized to the point of bankruptcy, because they have made more than had been anticipated. While a good crop year in any one of our leading commodities is usually followed by a poor one, there is no balancing the good with the bad, if the purpose in so doing is to make each self sustaining.

FARMERS NOT PERMITTED TO HOLD FOR A FIXED PRICE.

Farmers are sometimes permitted to hold their produce for awhile against an adverse market, if they wish to risk the result of future speculation, but not for a price determined by the cost of production. The government a few years ago, announced through its War Finance Commissioner that no money would be advanced to growers who had a fixed price, which of course, meant whether such price was based upon cost of production or not. The farmers were forced to ignore costs. But in spite of these conditions, the government experts wonder why the farmers lose interest in their efforts to help. The truth is, the farmers are opposed to the government spending money to continue teaching them how to remain business failures by being successful producers. The real business incentive, under the rule of the more you produce the less you receive, would be to keep the country on the verge of a productive famine and such policy is not wise.

DIFFICULTIES OF COOPERATION.

Farmers are advised to cooperate. The advice is easier given than followed. One only needs to look at the efforts to cooperate along governmental, educational and religious lines to see how difficult is collective action. But for what purpose are farmers admonished to cooperate? It is not necessary in order to diversify or to apply scientific methods of farming, the two main prescriptions of the government doctors. A person can farm scientifically and diversify his crops without being even on speaking terms with his neighbors. "Cooperate for marketing purposes," say the experts. And they will go the farmers one better in abusing the fellows who are skinning the farmers out of their produce. Then, when the question comes up as to what should be asked for certain products these advisers tell the farmers to not put any price upon their produce at all; that it is wrong to contemplate "Price-fixing."

BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. John Zinsmeyer was a charming hostess Wednesday evening when she entertained the Bridge club. The Halloween motif was used in the tables and also in the table accessories. At the conclusion of the games Mrs. Herman Ney was high among the members and Mrs. Louis Carle, Jr. high among the guests, each receiving lovely pieces of china. The low score prize was given to Mrs. Ed. Finger and consolation to Mrs. Ferd Koch.

A delicious salad course was served to the following members: Mesdames Herman Ney, Ferd Koch, John Rieber, M. J. Finger, Joe Williams, Hy. Nehr, Hy. Biry, Ed. Finger and Misses Grace Zinsmeyer, Cornelia Koch and Tina Rothe, and guests, Mesdames Reily Carle, M. A. Zinsmeyer, Hy. Muennink, Alf. Zinsmeyer, Joe Rieber and Louis Carle Jr. and Misses Lorine Zinsmeyer and Elvira Biediger.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the Halloween season was a supper and movie party given last Friday evening by Mrs. W. O. Rothe honoring her daughter, Miss Annette, who celebrated her fourteenth birthday anniversary. The guests were greeted at the head of the stair-way by a small ghost who gave each a "cold" hand shake. Then they were ushered into the gayly decorated rooms where small tables whose centers held orange candles in silver holders. Each guest found her place marked by orange cups of Halloween candies to which her name was attached. The supper plate molded apricot salad, tuna and pimiento sandwiches, olives, potato chips, devil's food cake and iced tea was next the center of attraction. This being disposed of all enjoyed the movie at the Colonial, after which good-bys were regretfully said. All wished the honoree many more such happy anniversaries and presented her with many lovely tokens of their friendship.

Those bidden to the affair were Misses Doris Windrow, Rosena Taylor, Billy Fusselman, Frances Haegelein, Anna Laura Wehausen, Mary Emma Finger, Mary Ruth Wilson, Hilda Gerdes and Master Bonnard Rothe, the honoree and the hostess.

FOR THE BEEKEEPER.

Extracted honey often fails to sell because of unattractive containers. Bright yellow tin cans should be used, using an attractive label on same, and such labels are very cheap, your local printer in most cases can print you very attractive labels at a reasonable price.

All honey should be well strained before being put up and marked especially if in glass jars.

Some of us beemen who, like the writer, invested everything he had, and then some more that he could get from friends, in the bee-business, are naturally feeling blue now, with no honey sales, even at a ridiculous low price.

But honey will keep. There is no use dumping it into the Gulf of Mexico; better times will come again when honey will sell.

We have a honey in one of our apiaries that has a decidedly lemon sour taste that is pleasing in the extreme to most people. The color is dark, but the flavor is good; so good in fact, that I will pack same separately for a special trade. I never saw anything like it before in my 35 years of beekeeping.

Jas. I. Hambleton gave an outstanding talk at a beekeepers' meeting in Florida. Says Mr. Hambleton: "There is no record of honey or bees ever carrying a disease that is injurious to the human race. Also honey acts as a disinfectant, especially if diluted with water."

Then he gave results of experiments that have been made where honey taken as food killed disease germs after they were taken into the body, through the mouth before they could be taken into the blood.

He stated that there was no source of food other than honey that gave as quick a source of energy, and was the only sweet that gave a signal when one has eaten enough.

Mr. Hambleton asked this question: "Why not eat honey because all sugars must become honey after taken into the body before they can be assimilated by the blood?" The speaker also stressed the need of standardization both in grades and packages. Also recommended the use of honey posters furnished by the Department at Washington and the use of the U. S. grade stamps.

The Vermont Honey Producers Association met at the home of Mr. Clogston at Ely, Vt., on August 15. It is reported a certain Dr. Goss of Weider, Vt., gave a talk on the value of honey as a food. It is also said that Dr. Goss talks honey, eats honey believes in it, and sells honey. We need more like him although he has a reputation of always prescribing a gallon of honey, as being very beneficial whether his patient had a broken leg, or what have you! The report of it was, many who took the first 10 pounds came back for more.

All beemen as well as those friendly to the Beekeeping fraternity should remember National Honey Week, Nov. 9 to 14, 1931. Have honey on every table in the land during the whole week, and eat some too.

I have often heard people address each other as "honey" when young and somewhat mushy, but now comes Robt. E. Foster of Louisiana and claims that they have a honey at the U. S. Department of Agriculture 60 years old, while John Conner claims a honey 3,300 years old was found in Egypt. My! How uncanny and hoary with age! But honey keeps.

HONEY BUTTER.

Honey blended with butter has been put on the market in a limited way in some parts of the U. S. under the name of "Honey Butter." About two years ago patents were taken out by a Los Angeles firm on such a product, which contained in the neighborhood of 40 per cent honey and 60 per cent butter, and stiffened with gelatine or fruit pectin. Honey Butter is essentially a spread for toast or bread, but no doubt might be used in various other ways.

HONEY IN MILK DRINKS.

Mr. Lucas of ice cream fame mentions the use of honey in milk drinks, and suggests the following formula: To each 16 oz. of milk add 3 oz. of honey, add 15 drops of orange or lemon extract, or 7 drops of each. Agitate at a shaker, or with a whip until the honey is dissolved. Color a lemon shade, chill and serve. This may be varied in a great many ways by changing the flavoring material. These milk drinks are intended more for home use of course but should prove popular at soda fountains.

FALL GARDENS.

By L. A. Hawkins
Agricultural Extension Department
International Harvester Company.

In many sections the fall and winter climates are sufficiently warm to allow many vegetables to be grown for fall and early winter use. Wherever this is possible the opportunity should not be lost. Strangely enough those sections of the country, particularly the South, that can raise late garden crops are the very ones where we find less attention being given to growing these things to eat. Farm families in the cotton belt are very apt to have too few vegetables in their diet and as a result deprive themselves of nature's best foods and tonic.

Soil for fall gardens should be carefully chosen and prepared. Drouth must be provided against. It should be fertile and easily cultivated, as weeds must be kept down. It ought to be convenient to the house but not a "botched" up patch in the corner where all the work will have to be done by hand. Plenty of space with wide rows for horse cultivation are just as essential in the fall as in the spring garden. If the land can be fallowed through the spring and early season many weeds will be destroyed and later garden work made easier.

The fall garden should be carefully planned and all the crops that will grow in the locality included, in order that a good variety of fall and winter vegetables may be had. Use only the very best of seed. The hotbed will be useful for starting plants to set out in the fall garden. Most of the fall garden crops can follow the spring and summer plantings if planned in advance.

Planting in the fall garden should start in June and regular planting be made until September or October, depending upon crops and climate. Beans can be planted as late as August or September and be ready to eat before frost. Beets, chard and carrots will grow to usable size from seed sown as late as August. Sweet potato slips can be put out in June and July. Okra is a steadily fruiting plant and seed sown in June, July and August will give a continuous crop. Late summer planted Irish potatoes will yield a good fall crop if growing conditions are favorable. Monthly plantings of lettuce should be made as late as September. Turnips grow rapidly and frequent plantings should be made. Sweet corn can be made a successful fall garden crop. Cabbages, peas, onions, spinach, radish, mustard, kohlrabi, cauliflower, brussels sprouts, cabbage and kale are all fall garden crops that should be included. Plan on at least 20 different vegetables for the fall and winter garden. Be prepared to control insects and diseases. Be thorough in cultural practices and keep the weeds out of the patch.

Grow enough of the crops that can be stored to carry the family through the short winter period when they cannot be had fresh from the garden.

THINKS THERE SHOULD BE LESS FAULT-FINDING.

Dear Mr. Davis:
I want to thank you for sending me copies of FLETCHER'S S. R. FARMING. One gets constructive thoughts from your journal. I wish I had a trained mind so that I could do something to help make the world better, or rather make the people see that we have a better good old U. S. A. after all. Somehow, I think we should stop finding fault with each other and start to build a constructive, instructive program for people to live by. I do not know a journal more fitted for this purpose than Fletcher's Farming. We see a line like this: "The farmers have received a dirty deal." The farmer has been told so often that he is receiving a dirty deal that they believe it themselves. It is a bad policy to get people to feeling sorry for themselves. The farmer has not had any worse deal than the city people. And let me tell you right now, it is not the farmer who will suffer this winter, but poor country people who have moved to the city in the last few years. The factories and all the various businesses of our large cities offered such attractive wages that the country and small towns were drained of their surplus. Workers flocked in huge numbers to large communities. Now this is the question: "What are the cities doing with these ex-farmers?" Making derelicts out of most of them. It is not the cities fault though. It is no one's fault in particular. We went against nature when our Government tried to make laws to keep up the price of farm products. Supply and demand take care of that. The Federal Farm Board had a beautiful theory as to how they were going to ship produce from the farms to the consumers. That is where the great mistake was made. Who did the Government have to take the place of thousands of men, some who had spent their lives building up commerce? What I can't understand is why the Government did not organize the shippers and that would have taken care of the producer and consumer at the same time. These are things

GEORGE KARM.

The tolling of the church bells announcing the death of Mr. George Karm, Saturday, October 24th, 1931, was a shock to the village. He was born in Medina County, November 12, 1861, and at the time of his demise was 69 years old. His whole life was spent here, where he earned his living at farming.

He is survived by two sons, Albert and Oscar, by his first wife, Isabel Beck, who died in 1904, and a son and daughter, Joe and Laella, by his second wife, Christina Haby, who survives him.

The funeral was held Sunday, October 25, at 3 P. M. at the parish hall and the St. Louis Church, and was interred in the St. Louis cemetery, the Rev. J. Lenzen officiating.
